INTRODUCTION

This collection was compiled from various sources. Single photocopies of unpublished materials may be made for purposes of scholarly research. The collection occupies 10.92 linear feet of shelf space, and number approximately 4,500 items.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The Civil War Collection contains approximately 150 volumes and 4,060 items are Confederate material, and approximately 10 volumes and 450 items are Federal material.

Included are autograph albums, casualty lists, cemetery records, clippings, diaries, letters, maps, memoirs, orders, photographs, records (medical, supply, etc.), scrapbooks, sketches, and material relating to military personnel and units, monuments, prisons, and veterans' organizations. Miscellaneous items include a casualty list and muster roll of Forrest's command, Civil War veterans' questionnaire data, Confederate money, field notes, a hospital register from Memphis, Tennessee, Rev. Charles Todd Quintard's Manual of Devotions, a roster of quartermasters in the Army of Tennessee, and two theses. There are also fifty-one volumes of material concerning the Civil War Centennial of 1961-1965. These were placed in the Manuscript Division by the Tennessee Civil War Centennial Commission, Campbell H. Brown, Executive Director.

To the researcher of the Civil War period, this collection will be a valuable source of information on the following campaigns and battles: Atlanta, Belmont, Bentonville, Brice's Cross Roads, Bull Run, Chattanooga, Chickamauga, Corinth, Dalton, Fishing Creek, Fort Donelson, Fort Henry, Fort Pillow, Franklin, Gettysburg, Manassas, Missionary Ridge, Murfreesboro, Nashville, New Hope Church, Perryville, Port Hudson, Shiloh, Tennessee Campaign, Vicksburg, and the Virginia Campaign.

Information concerning military units from Alabama, Arkansas, Iowa, Kentucky, and Tennessee, is arranged by state, by branch of service, and then by unit, and includes histories, rolls, and other records which pertain to the unit as such.

CONFEDERATE MATERIAL

The nine autograph albums in the collection were kept by such notables as Gov. John Calvin Brown, Alfred Osborne Pope Nicholson, and others. They contain signatures, and in some cases, lengthy remarks concerning the War and other Confederate prisoners at Fort Warren and Johnson's Island prisons. In many cases the men who signed the albums included their company and regiment, with the place and time of their capture. In John C. Brown's album Nathaniel Francis Cheairs wrote at length of the courage, skill and gallantry displayed by Brown and by the regiment which he had commanded, the Third Regiment, Tennessee Volunteers. Of particular interest is his account of the fall of Fort Donelson. In signing his name in Brown's album, Henry Myers, Paymaster, C .S. Navy, added that he had been arrested in Morocco and sent to Boston in irons.

Included among the twenty-seven Confederate diaries is the printed one of Brig. Gen. Marcus J. Wright, April 23, 1861-February 26, 1863, in which he told of the march from Chattanooga into Kentucky and the subsequent retreat from Kentucky. George R. Elliott, a major in the 2nd Tennessee Cavalry, described action in which he took part, and at times wrote in his diary while under the enemy's fire. William E. Sloan gave an excellent account of his service with Co. D, 5th Tennessee Cavalry and with Wheeler's command. Other valuable diaries in the Collection include those of Andrew Jackson Campbell of Maury County and Marcus Bearden Toney of Davidson County.

Among the Confederate letters (approximately 1,200) are originals, xeroxed and typed copies, photostats, and facsimiles of letters of the following: Alfred Harris Abernathy, Judah P. Benjamin, U. T. Brown, Alex M. Clayton and others, Jefferson Davis, Sam Davis, Dr. David George Godwin, Landon C. Haynes, Gustavus A. Henry, Thomas Jonathan Jackson, Bushrod Rust Johnson, Matthew Fontaine Maury, John Hunt Morgan, Leonidas Polk, James E. Rains, Alfred J. Vaughan, John C. Vaughn, and Joseph Wheeler.

There are five letters addressed to Confederate President Jefferson Davis. One letter, dated September 3, 1861, and signed by Alex M. Clayton and other prominent citizens, requested the appointment of Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston to command the army of West Tennessee. A letter to Davis, dated March 8, 1862, signed by the two Senators from Tennessee, Gustavus A. Henry and Landon C. Haynes, and eight member of the Confederate Congress, asked for the removal of Johnston because the army had lost confidence in him. They also urged Davis to come to Tennessee for the sake of building morale. A third letter, dated November 17, 1863, written by Gustavus A. Henry from General Bragg's headquarters urged the necessity of driving the enemy out of Tennessee. A letter dated November 10, 1864, written by W. G. Swann, a member of the Confederate Congress, requested assistance in obtaining the release of Hon. Heiskell. The last of this group of letters, dated January 19, 1865, and signed by A. S. Colyar and other members of the Confederate Congress, urged Davis to obtain the release of Hon. Heiskell before W. G. Brownlow became Governor of Tennessee.

Other letters of interest include a group written by Mary Walker Meriwether Bell of Christian County, Kentucky. These letters are an excellent source of material about the people and conditions in Christian County and the surrounding area, including Clarksville (Montgomery County), Tennessee. Letters written by Sarah Ann Bailey Kennedy give a vivid picture of conditions in Clarksville during the War period. A letter from the citizens of Clarksville to Ulysses S. Grant protested the outrages committed by the Federal soldiers stationed there. A letter of J. Wes Broom, illustrated with colored pencil drawings, gave a lengthy, poetic description of the successful defense of Port Hudson against Federal naval attack.

Among the forty-one Confederate memoirs, of particular note are those of William Gibbs Allen, R. W. Banks, Newton Cannon, Nathaniel Francis Cheairs, James L. Cooper, Henry Melvil Doak, J. W. Harmon, John Johnston, John M. Porter, and Isaac Nelson Rainey.

Allen, of Rhea County, Tennessee, serving with the 5th Tennessee Cavalry, described cavalry engagements and gave eye-witness accounts of Gen. Joseph Wheeler, for whom Allen served as Adjutant. His memoirs, supplemented by his questionnaire data, contain much information concerning the part the 5th Tennessee Cavalry played in the War, the organization of the cavalry in East Tennessee, and Rhea County. Banks, whose memoirs primarily concern the Battle of Franklin, is author of the book, The Battle of Franklin, November 30, 1864, the Bloodiest Engagement of the War Between the States. J. W. Harmon of Lauderdale County, Alabama, served with the 35th Regiment, Alabama Infantry. Harmon gave detailed accounts of engagements in which he was involved, troop movements, and conditions on the march and at various camp sites. He told of conditions after his capture at the Battle of Nashville, of the trip to Camp Chase prison, and of conditions in the prison. John Johnston, of Denmark, Tennessee, served with the Tennessee Infantry, and after being discharged for medical reasons, later joined the Cavalry. His memoirs are detailed and quite interesting. They were published in the Tennessee Historical Quarterly, XIII (1954) and XIV (1955). Other manuscripts in the Confederate material which have been published include the memoirs of James Lytton Cooper, published in the Tennessee Historical Quarterly, XV, no. 2, (June, 1956); and the memoirs of Newton Cannon, of Williamson County, Tennessee, published as The Reminiscences of Newton Cannon, by the Carter House Association of Franklin, Tennessee, and printed by McCowat-Mercer Press, Inc., Jackson, Tennessee, in 1963.

The majority of the material concerning Nathan Bedford Forrest was collected by Monroe F. Cockrell and given by him to the Manuscript Division. This collection includes a photostat of a Forrest letter, clippings, articles and speeches, booklets, and correspondence with Robert S. Henry on points of interest concerning Forrest. In addition to the Forrest material the Military Personnel section of the Confederate material contains data on William B. Bate, Jefferson Davis and Davis' escort, Sam Davis, Thomas Jonathan Jackson, and others.

The three scrapbooks contain clippings relating to various battles, the possibility of England's alliance with the Confederacy, and other topics that were being discussed in the newspapers of the day.

Records of the Fred Ault Camp, No. 5, Forbes Bivouac, No. 21, and other camps of the United Confederate Veterans are included in the Collection.

FEDERAL MATERIAL

There are approximately 300 Federal letters, among which are originals, xeroxed and typed copies, and photostats of letters of the following: Georg H. Brunsted, Charles Henry Davis, Andrew Hull Foote, Ulysses S. Grant, Henry Wager Halleck, John Park, William Tecumseh Sherman, and William W. Teall.

Of particular interest are the forty-two letters and biographical sketch of William W. Teall, a colonel on the staff of his father-in-law, Edwin V. Sumner. The balloon, "Eagle," which was used for Federal reconnaissance work in the Fredericksburg, Virginia, area was subject to Teall's orders. His letters revealed the interference by the Federal government with orders of Federal officers, told of the removal of McClelland and his replacement by Burnside, and gave many details concerning the Battle of Fredericksburg. Portions of the letters have been published in the Civil War Times, Illustrated, V. 4, no 2 (May, 1965), and in the Tennessee Historical Quarterly, XXIV, no. 3 (Fall, 1965).

There are also letters of George H. Brunsted, a Canadian recruit in the 15th Wisconsin Infantry; the request of Charles Henry Davis, Flag Officer commanding the U. S. Flag Steamer, "Benton", for the surrender of Memphis, with the reply of Memphis mayor, John Park; reports and requests of Flag Officer, Andrew Hull Foote, to Gen. Henry Wager Halleck and Secretary of the Navy, Gideon Welles, concerning the fall of Fort Henry, the attack on Fort Donelson, and naval operations on the Mississippi river in 1862.

The three letters of Ulysses S. Grant mentioned conditions in Nashville, Tennessee, in 1862, and at Shiloh prior to battle. He also commented upon the fall of Fort Donelson. Henry Wager Halleck's letter also mentioned the fall of Fort Donelson.

The General Orders of David Glasgow Farragut called for preparation of ships for Mississippi River service. An excerpt from the diary of J. C. Harwood told of witnessing the execution of Sam Davis. The field notes of Francis Mohrhardt, a major and topographical engineer of the U. S. Army attached to the staff of Philip Henry Sheridan, included numerous pencil-drawn maps--primarily of parts of Alabama and Tennessee--showing in detail roads, railroads, bridges, distances between towns, and topographical features. A map compiled in 1865 by order of Gen William T. Sherman traces marches made by his forces from 1863-1865.

In addition to the Civil War Collection, Civil War material may be found in the following collections, among others, in the Manuscript Division: Bailey Collection, Barclay Collection, Barnsley Collection, Bedford Letterbook, Bell Family Papers, Bentley Papers, Bransford Papers, Brown and Ewell Papers, Buell-Brien Papers, Bunting Collection, Cheatham Papers, Jesse Cox Diary, Darden Collection, Doak Papers, Drane

Papers, Edmondson Family Papers, Farmer Collection, Faw Papers, Fergusson Collection, Figures Collection, Gale Papers, Jill Garrett Collection, Goodloe Papers, George Carroll Harris Papers, Nannie Haskins Diaries, McGavock Hayes Papers, Hollowell Papers, Morton B. Howell Collection, Howell E. Small collections containing Civil War material include the following: Adams Collection, John Preston Watts Brown Papers, Milton Brown Papers, William Gannaway Brownlow Papers, Campbell Family Papers, Castner Papers, Hadox Papers, Isham Green Harris Papers, McCullom Papers, Manlove Papers, Melbane Papers, Page Paper, Paine Family Papers, Ralston Papers, and the Robertson Topp papers.

The following Civil War materials, among others, are on microfilm: Bills-Polk-Wood Letters, Charles-Crutcher -McRaven Letters, Douglas Papers, Paul M. Fink Papers, Isham Green Harris Letterbook, Samuel Henderson Diary, History of Meigs County, Tennessee, Mooney Collection, Palmer Autograph Album, Robertson Topp Papers, Vordell Letters, and the Willard Warner Papers.

Also in the Manuscript Division are questionnaires filled out by Confederate and Federal veterans living in Tennessee in the years 1915-1922. The published Index to Questionnaires lists these veterans by name, giving their home county and regiment.
